

SOCIETY

WITH all the Christmas affairs over soon the big event for the coming week will be the reception and ball at which Governor Pinkham will be host on New Year's Eve. There have been no special invitations issued, but it is the wish of the governor that all Honoluluans be his guests for the evening.

In the historical old throne room of the Capitol building, where the Kings of Hawaii and lastly Queen Liliuokalani received the personages of years ago, Governor Pinkham will receive his guests on the evening of his reception. With him will be members of his staff and other officials in the government service. There will be a canopy running from the Capitol to the National Guard Armory, and after the reception the guests will dance the Old Year out and the New Year in in the hall at the Armory.

The governor has arranged for special decorations for both the Throne Room and the Armory, and the function will be one of the most elaborate of the year. There will be particularly good music, which the governor says will continue until there are none left to trip the light fantastic.

Downtown entertainment has been very popular this week. One of the biggest attractions of the week has been the cabaret and roof garden music at the Young hotel. It has been an innovation. Soloists of merit have sung at intervals and in between visitors at the garden have amused themselves by tripping the "light fantastic." The small space covered with canvas has at times not been large enough to accommodate all of the dancers. The roof garden has indeed been a pleasant stopping place after the Christmas shopping during the evening, and society folk who have been interested in the theaters and movies have found it pleasant to go up to the garden for a dance or two before going home. It has been announced that the entertainment will continue through New Year's Eve, but it is hoped that the management will see fit to continue it at least one or two nights a week much longer. Honolulu shows appreciation of a modified cabaret entertainment.

(Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence)
SCHOFIELD BARRACKS, Dec. 24.
 The reception given by Colonel and Mrs. Lyman W. V. Kennon on Monday evening in honor of General and Mrs. Frederick Strong, was a most charming affair. The Kennons are on the eve of leaving the garrison and almost packed, but in spite of this, the well known atmosphere of cordial hospitality reigned supreme. Through the rooms an effective scheme of decoration was used, the Christmas flowers, the poinsettia, combined with greens, made a brilliant background for the many guests who coming and going all the evening enjoyed to the utmost the delightful occasion. General and Mrs. Strong are known to many of the garrison who are glad to renew acquaintance and welcome them to their new post. Colonel Kennon's famous special punch was served to the appreciative guests from a table dainty and inviting in its green garnishings. Here Mrs. Americus Mitchell, Mrs. Livingston Watrous and Miss Ann Carpenter presided. Lieut. Watrous presented the arriving guests to General and Mrs. Strong, who numbered during the evening about a hundred and fifty of the officers and ladies of Schofield.

The most interesting news of the week is the announcement of the engagement of Miss Annie Carpenter to Lieut. Coleman Jenkins of the Coast Artillery, which was made on Saturday last at a luncheon given by Mrs. George Bailey. Miss Carpenter has been the guest of her uncle and aunt, Colonel and Mrs. George Bailey, since their arrival in the garrison about two years ago and is one of the most generally popular girls who have ever visited Schofield. Lieut. Jenkins, too, is happy in a host of friends, all of whom are warmly congratulating him. A number of affairs are being planned in their honor, which will take place in the early spring.

Mrs. Seth Cook, who will leave Schofield and the 4th Cavalry on the January transport, was the guest of honor at the pleasant three-table bridge tea on Monday afternoon, which was given by Mrs. Alexander Milton. The pivoting game was played with a dainty prize for each table. To Mrs. Cook was awarded a Japanese sewing bag, Miss Grace Cook and Mrs. Kiefer won at their tables and were given Japanese sandals as prizes. Present were Mesdames Cook, Miss Cook, Roland Gaugler, Phillip Keefer, George Callender, St. Claire Baumgartner, Charles Naylor, W. McGill, William Forsyth, William Gardenhire, William Nalle and Robert Cheney.

On Tuesday evening before the Castner hop, Miss Hortense Short entertained with a supper for twenty-four. Christmas decorations were used throughout this delightful affair; fragrant greens combined with the brilliant poinsettia flower outlined the windows and doors and mantles, while on the various small tables at which the guests were seated there were red shaded candles and tiny Christmas stockings at each place, which were filled with nuts and containing a cunning Japanese favor for each guest. After enjoying a very delicious supper, the party attended the hop in the pavilion. The guests were the Misses Carrie and Esther McMahon, Welcome Ayer, Ann Carpenter, Edith Patton, Captain and Mrs. Harry Knight, Captain and Mrs. Pelham Glassford, Lieut. and Mrs. Rawson Warren, Lieut. and Mrs. Thomas Love, Lieut. and Mrs. Orville Tyler, Mrs. De Russy Hoyle, Lieut. Edward Rose, V. V. Enyart, Eugene Owen, William Dorman, Harold Huntley and James Ulio.

Lieut. and Mrs. Joseph Daly and Mrs. Henry Lantry gave a dinner on Tuesday evening in honor of Col. and Mrs. L. W. V. Kennon. Twelve covers were placed about a round table, which had for decorations a charmingly combined vase of pink carnations and Shasta daisies and ferns, and crystal candelabra. Present were Col. and Mrs. Kennon, Mrs. Ellen Jordan, Maj. T. N. Horn, Maj. William Guignard, Capt. and Mrs. Chalmers Hall, Lieut. and Mrs. Charles Daly, Mrs. Henry Lantry and Lieut. and Mrs. Joseph Daly.

Dr. and Mrs. Albert White gave a hop supper on Tuesday evening, when they entertained for 28. Red African daisies and red-shaded candles characterized the table decorations. The guests were the Misses Elizabeth Pattison, Mary Bonesteel, Dorothy Forsyth, Capt. and Mrs. Clyde Crusan, Lieut. and Mrs. Bonesteel, Capt. and Mrs. Joseph Janda, Lieut. and Mrs. Fred Pitts, Lieut. and Mrs. Bayard Sneed, Capt. and Mrs. Paul Cook, Lieut. and Mrs. Robert Harbord and Lieut. and Mrs. Roland Gaugler, Lieut. Robert Snow, Frank Schneider, John Simmons, Frank Riley and William McCulloch.

Lieut. and Mrs. Elvid Hunt are entertaining Lieut. and Mrs. Stanley Campbell and their little daughter, Marie, as house-guests until the sailing of the transport, when they will be homeward-bound passengers.

The 1st Infantry weekly hop will take place on New Year's Eve next week instead of Tuesday night as usually is the case.

The regular 25th Infantry hop will take place on Christmas night, Saturday, instead of Friday. Preceding it there will be a number of dinners, the diners later going to the club for the dancing. Lieut. and Mrs. Livingston Watrous will entertain for Mrs. Hunt, Col. Carl Reichmann and Lieut.

Beard, Wallace Philoon and Oswald Saunders.

Among the passengers aboard the Great Northern arriving Thursday were Mrs. Hunt, mother of Lieut. Livingston Watrous, who comes for a few weeks' visit, and Mrs. William Gance and her mother, Mrs. Russell. Mrs. Hunt will be cordially welcomed back to the post, having made many friends when she was here a year and a half ago.

On Wednesday evening Capt. and Mrs. Edward Carey entertained at dinner in honor of Col. and Mrs. Lyman W. V. Kennon.

Capt. and Mrs. Roger Mason were dinner hosts on Wednesday, entertaining for 12 before the hop in the Mounted Service Mess. Poinsettias were used in a brilliant arrangement on the round table, around which were seated Col. and Mrs. Frank Keefer, Mrs. Henry Lantry, Capt. and Mrs. Charles Lloyd, Col. John McMahon, Maj. T. N. Horn, Capt. and Mrs. Charles Lloyd, Mrs. G. O. Ellis, Lieut. and Mrs. Joseph Daly and Capt. and Mrs. Mason.

On Monday night Mrs. Alexander Patton gave an informal and greatly enjoyed party at Haleiwa. Motoring down in the moonlit evening, the guests participated in a swim in the bay, which was followed by a delicious supper at the hotel, and later a dance on the lanai. Those composing the party were Lieut. and Mrs. Thomas Love, Mrs. Joseph Janda, Miss Edith Patton, Miss Esther McMahon, Miss Elizabeth Pattison, Lieut. Charles Hankhead, Frank Riley, John Smith, Edward Rose, Robert Snow and John Simmons.

Mrs. Jack Hayes on Friday last entertained with a bridge-luncheon at her home on Oahu avenue, in Honolulu. The guests, most of whom were Schofield ladies, were invited for 11 o'clock in the morning, and enjoyed a number of progressions of auction before the luncheon hour. Green and white were used attractively as color scheme for the luncheon and was carried out in all the dainty accessories. The prizes were won by Mrs. John Wisner and Mrs. John Jordan, and were lovely table runners of crochet. Present were Mesdames Wisner, Jordan, Ernest Gose, Lewis Sorley, Paul McCook, Joseph Janda, Charles Rice, George Kumpke, Henry Kilbourne, George Bailey, Miss Stella Mayer and the hostess.

On Tuesday little Mary Fehet celebrated her second birthday with a "party" for six of the smaller children of the cavalry garrison.

Capt. and Mrs. Americus Mitchell gave a dinner on Thursday evening in honor of Col. and Mrs. L. W. V. Kennon. At this attractive affair the red poinsettias were used as the table's centerpiece, with the red note echoed in the candles and the holly decorated place cards. Covers were placed for Col. and Mrs. Kennon, Major and Mrs. Frank Albright, Dr. and Mrs. Raymond Bliss and Capt. and Mrs. Mitchell. Later the evening was spent with auction.

Lieut. and Mrs. Charles Wyman will entertain at dinner on Christmas night for Capt. and Mrs. Americus Mitchell and Lieut. and Mrs. Charles Rich.

Capt. and Mrs. John Jordan will be Christmas hosts also, entertaining at dinner in the evening for eight. A Christmas tree with glittering decora-
